

I recently became an XM customer because of the variety, content and quality of the XM broadcast. I travel alot and appreciate being able to listen to my favorite broadcast where every I am. I also like the news and new weatherand traffic updates. All too often it is difficult (and safely) find a local traffice radio report when passing through a city. As an American who values freedom of choice I am apalled to see that the National Association of Broadcasters are trying to dictate my right to choice, and that goes for my freedom to choose to a paid radio subscription that provides me with what I want to hear. I also feel that the benefits of satellite radio include another means for valuable information in our uncertain times in light of terroist threats and natural disasters!
